

AMENDMENTS TO THE ABSTRACT

Please insert the following paragraph for the abstract:

A system for playing audio and/or video tracks in a public place in response to requests made by people, in which a jukebox is situated in the public place, the jukebox providing a plurality of audio and/or video tracks from which a selection of tracks to be played in the public place can be made by people in the public place, the jukebox being adapted to register requests for tracks to be played and to store requests whilst other requested tracks are played, characterized in that the jukebox registers a request in response to information transmitted by a person using a mobile communications device which is adapted to transmit text, data or speech over a wireless communications network, the transmitted information being processed automatically to provide data instructions which register the request.